That would be great. This way we may save a return trip.

Hi Dean:

I need to check on holding times once the samples have been filtered and kept on dry ice I think we are OK to hold on to them.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Burdett

Cheryl: not sure about holding time for the chips but can we collect samples for both ecoli and chips and hold chip analysis until we get ecoli results back? If we get positive ecoli then we run the chips?

Hi Aaron:

I am not sure if you have to put in your travel through November 15 for this year, but we need to do two separate inspections up to Central Sands Dairy, LLC. One inspection would be a site visit of the facility and possibly E.coli testing at private wells that have not been tested. We would like to determine what wells have hits for E.coli prior to doing the phylochip. The second trip would be to do the phylochip testing where we had hits for E.coli.

I put my trips for November 1-3 and November 7 -10.

Hope this works for you. I plan on trying to go out on the inspections in October, but I put my travel in later for some wiggle room.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Burdett
